

Congressman Earl Blumenauer and President Barack Obama at a White House reception on April 23, 2009. The two discussed Congressman Blumenauer's push for more federal funding for the Portland Streetcar. A week later, Secretary of Transportation Ray LaHood Announced that the federal government would help the city expand the Portland Streetcar to the east side of the Willamette River.